DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shavit et al.

Shavit et al. disclose or inherently teach all of the limitations of the claims (see for example: Col. 9, lines 43-68; Col. 11, lines 23-35; Col. 28, lines 40-50; and Col. 33, lines 50-65) but the reference lacks the specific teaching of formatting the processed data (i.e., reports) based on the identification of the user, where the format includes a first format for a store, a second format for a distributor, and a third format for a supplier.

It would have been an obvious design choice at the time of the invention to modify Shavit et al. to have the processed data formatted based on the type of user, as it is well known in the art of reports to customize information in order for the intended recipient to receive data that is most pertinent to his/her/their business. For example, a store's reports may include data relevant to all inventory; while a distributor's reports may only include data relevant to inventory that was delivered by that distributor; and further a supplier's reports may only include data relevant to inventory that was produced by that supplier.

Re claim 3: It would have been an obvious design choice at the time of the invention to modify Shavit et al. to have the format of data utilize a coding scheme unique to the user, for example the user I.D., or user's name, in order to ensure that the data is only accessed by selected entities. (See, for example, Shavit et al., Col. 11, lines 44-47).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
